

Meet Chris Goett: A Full Time Realtor Committed to Excellence

Chris is a native of Peoria, Illinois and grew up in a culture of flying with his father who was a military aviator and career commercial pilot. Chris continues to this day to serve in the US Air National Guard as a 3rd generation family member proudly serving in the US military. As an Air Force service member for over 14 years, Chris fully understands the ongoing real estate needs of other military service members and their families.

While growing up in Peoria, Chris was highly active in basketball athletics both in high school and in college. Prior to joining the US Air Force, Chris graduated from Illinois State University with a bachelor science degree in Biology. Chris's hobbies include drone photography, hunting, deep sea fishing, and an ongoing love of athletics.

For each of his real estate clients, Chris brings a high commitment of integrity, service, and the pursuit of excellence to each and every transaction. As a full time real estate professional, Chris offers each client strong listening skills as well as a commitment to exceptional service from the beginning to the end of their home purchase transactions.

Since the beginning his real estate career, Chris has rapidly developed a solid knowledge base of the Bryan-College Station community as well as avidly learning the professional process of assisting buyers with the successful purchase of their new homes.

For a seamless, positive, and successful purchase of your next home, please contact Chris to assist you with your next home purchase today.
